Comments from the Public: Benjamin Rife with West Ohio Community Action Partnership (WOCAP) wanted to let the Auglaize and Mercer County communities know that they will be offering a Fatherhood Initiative Program & Workshops. The Fatherhood Initiative is a supportive program that helps fathers and father figures strengthen their relationships with their children, build parenting skills, set goals, and overcome barriers that may affect their families. The program is for fathers, expectant fathers, and father figures with children under the age of 18. WOCAP received a grant for this program and will be incentivizing participants with $200 completion of the program and a gas card for traveling if attending in-person group sessions. There are other options where you can attend online as well. For more information you can go online at www.wocap.org.

Reports:

Police: Wynk told the council all the officers went through training this past week on their new tasers they received recently. Wynk said they budgeted new tasers this year because their old ones were over 10 years old and were in rough shape.
